Remuneration policy for the Spar Nord Group

This remuneration policy describes the remuneration framework for the Spar Nord Group. The remuneration policy is determined by the Board of Directors and is subject to approval by the shareholders at a General Meeting. The remuneration policy is updated once a year.

The remuneration policy applies to all Spar Nord Group senior staff members and employees and is grouped into three main categories:

- 1) General remuneration principles and remuneration conditions
- 2) Special rules for employees having a material impact on the Company's risk profile
- 3) Remuneration of members of the Board of Directors and the Executive Board

The purpose of the Spar Nord Group's remuneration policy is to promote long-term value creation for shareholders with due consideration to principles regarding sound and effective risk management, corporate governance and considerations for the reputation of the Group.

The remuneration policy must be consistent with the Bank's business strategy, objectives, values and long-term interests and ensure that remuneration of the Bank's employees is in accordance with the statutory provisions on protection of customers and investors and other legislative requirements.

General remuneration principles and remuneration issues

Spar Nord wants the Group's remuneration level and principles to conform to the market, enabling the Group to constantly be able to attract and retain the right employees. Thus, remuneration is considered to be one of several parameters of importance to our endeavours to remain an attractive place of work.

The specific remuneration of the individual employee is determined according to an individual agreement, and the point of departure is the job content and the employee's qualifications and performance. Remuneration of the Bank's employees must not encourage risk-taking exceeding the Bank's risk profile.

For employees covered by collective agreement, the total remuneration follows the collective agreement between the Danish Employers' Association for the Financial Sector and the Danish Financial Services Union. Employees are graded into pay brackets determined by collective agreement, and the pay is adjusted pursuant to the provisions of the standard collective agreement.

Clear and well-known criteria must be set up for the Group, specifying the efforts and results that may lead to upgrading to another pay bracket and lump sum payments. The decentralised business model and the goals of the local action plans provide the framework for the assessments underlying decisions about which employees to offer extraordinary rewards. A central set of rules has been set up to govern the criteria with which employees must as a minimum comply. These are set out in the staff handbook. Any promotion must be backed by reasons provided by the responsible manager.

Remuneration of the Bank's employees who provide advice to consumers on, and provide or grant credit against mortgage security or other similar security provided against real estate, is determined in compliance with the Bank's obligations under the rules on good banking practice set out in the Danish Financial Business Act. Remuneration of such employees must not encourage risk-taking exceeding the Bank's risk profile. In addition, the remuneration is not dependent on the number or amount of mortgage loan applications granted or on any other sales targets in mortgage finance.

Remuneration of the Bank's employees who arrange or distribute insurance products to consumers is determined in compliance with the Bank's obligations to trade in the customer's best interest and in accordance with best practice in the area. Furthermore, remuneration is independent of sales targets that encourage the employee to recommend specific insurance products to a customer when the Bank offers other insurance products that better cover the customer's needs.

In addition, the Executive Board has the option of rewarding extraordinary results with bonus payments. This bonus may not exceed the defined lower threshold limit (DKK 100,000) for the group of persons that fall within the scope of section 77a of the Danish Financial Business Act. As concerns employees in control functions, any bonus may not be tied to performance in the department(s) subject to control.

The employees are comprised by the pension scheme laid down in the collective agreement between the Danish Employers' Association for the Financial Sector and the Danish Financial Services Union and thus pay part of their salary to a pension scheme. Spar Nord also makes a contribution to this scheme. An accession agreement with AP Pension has been concluded regarding pension schemes.

The Group's employees have access to a wide range of employee benefits.

On retirement, severance pay will be paid according to the provisions of the Danish Salaried Employees Act and the collective agreement. The Group has a severance programme that is negotiated by the Cooperation Committee once a year. The employee may apply for participation in the severance programme, or may be offered to take part in it by his/her superior.

Remuneration of individuals comprised by section 77a of the Danish Financial Business Act

Spar Nord has determined that the groups and individuals stated below fall under section 77a-d of the Danish Financial Business Act, as they have "a material impact on the company's risk profile".
